ELECTORAL POLITICS IN NORTH EAST INDIA

P. S. DUTTA
The present volume contains twenty papers on different aspects of electoral dynamics in the plains and hills of north-east. It covers a period of about four decades from 1946 to 1983 and focusses attention on the political parties and people of north-east at three levels of our constitutional operation, namely, the elections to the House of the People, to the Legislative Assembly and to the Autonomous District Council.

The papers unravel the fascinating experiences of our parliamentary operation in an otherwise indifferent (and also hostile at times) soil of the hills of north-east. They also document the history of transition of the system to a growing frustration towards it in the plains of north-east.

By no means complete, the present volume however is a modest beginning in understanding the sequences of political development in one of the most vibrating corners of our polity—i.e. the north-east.

Dr. P.S. Datta presently teaches Sociology in North Eastern Hill University, Shillong, prior to which he taught in Regional Engineering College, Silchar and St. Edmund's College Shillong. In 1980 he was awarded the Ph.D., degree by Dibrugarh University for his thesis Social Mobility and Political Behaviour in Upper Assam. The U. G. C. awarded his a post-Doctoral Fellowship in 1981 to work on Muslim Political Behaviour in Assam: 1965-1980. He has been associated with two ICSSR sponsored research projects to study the Sixth and Seventh General Elections in Assam. He maintains a keen interest in matters pertaining to north-east and has contributed papers, to a number of collections of papers, journals and regional and national seminars. He also writes for the regional press on north-east in Bengali and Assamese as well. His Ph. D. thesis is shortly to be published.
ELECTORAL POLITICS
IN NORTH EAST INDIA

Edited by
P. S. Dutta

OMSONS PUBLICATIONS
NEW DELHI
GUWAHATI
Every political system has a social base. In north-east India we observe and experience a dimension of social base which is unique. Here we experience tribal egalitarian social tradition along with deep rooted feudal social experience both of which are now exposed to the forces of modernisation. The economy which is based on agriculture is poor and the per capita income is one of the lowest in the country. The settled cultivation has attracted very little investment and the land-relation is feudal in character. The shifting cultivation is a life style in many parts of the hills. Industrialisation is not worth the name excepting a few high technology units with little employment potentiality. The religious, linguistic, cultural pluralistics add new dimension to politics of north-east India.

Political participation is one essential component of any political system. Election is an important process ensuring linkage between different essential political component, such as political authority, legitimacy, political parties, political participation and alienation. Because of plural social base people politically react differently in different areas of the region in the hills and plains. The political parties, national and regional take unique stand in this region.

The seminar on Electoral Politics in North-East India held by North-East India Council for Social Science Research on 14-15 December 1983 was an important exercise to appreciate the problems of participation of the people of the region in our social and political system which makes democracy functional and viable. A large number of scholars and practicing politicians participated in the seminar and brought into focus data based experience for realistic appraisal of the issues. The papers contributed to the seminar have been edited by Dr. P.S. Datta, a political sociologist with rich experience of electoral study. We are grateful to Dr. T.K. Majumdar, Director (Research), Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, Dr. Partha S. Ghose of ICSSR, Mr. V. Ramakrishnan, the then Chief Electoral Officer, Meghalaya and now Deputy Election Commissioner, Rev. Brother M.G. Shannon, Principal, St. Edmund’s College, Shillong and the scholars and participants who contributed much to the success of the study.

I take this opportunity to thank Mr. Ramesh Kumar of Omsons Publications, Guwahati & New Delhi, for undertaking early publication of the volume. I have no doubt this book is a significant contribution to the north-east India study.

B. Datta Ray
Secretary
North-East India Council for Social Science Research

Shillong, 15 June, 1985
EDITOR’S NOTE

Of late the North East has emerged as one of the most fascinating fields of study and this increasing focus on North-East has been constantly widening newer horizons with regard to regional studies in our country. However, notwithstanding the new urge to understand and explain the North East, a general confusion among the public still now continues. The North East is very often taken as a single unit of analysis which is not only misleading but also at times counter productive.

The North East as we see it today consists of five states viz., Assam, Manipur, Meghalaya, Nagaland, and Tripura and two union territories viz., Arunachal Pradesh and Mizoram. The social bases of these constituent units are not the same. Two parallel bases have two parallel socio-political trends. The less differentiated tribal bases generated a set of expectations which is difficult to be understood in a framework relevant only to a highly differentiated social bases of the plains. Thus, the ‘non-tribal’ bases of North East and the ‘tribal’ bases of North East produce two distinctly different trends which are naturally manifested in politics. The fusion of the centrepetal and centrifugal forces and the consequent tension generated through it together make North East a unique case of political aspiration and management in India since 1947.

The present volume presents twenty papers by twenty insiders. The aim of the seminar to which originally the papers were presented was to generate a sense of enthusiasm among the academic activists and attract their attention to the necessity of understanding the political dimension of the socio-economic complexities of North East through the electoral periscope. Except some scattered involvement by some researchers, election
Studies in North East continue to be more or less neglected. The lack of professional approach is also very much evident. Nevertheless, the success of the seminar will be evident from the present volume itself since it is the first of its kind which between the covers include information and analysis about the electoral process in different constituent units of North East.

However, in the present volume no paper on Arunachal Pradesh, which entered the electoral arena in 1977, could be included. On Assam there are six papers, on Manipur one, on Meghalaya ten and on Mizoram, Nagaland and Tripura one paper each. The appendix contains a paper by the then Chief Electoral Officer, Meghalaya and the present Deputy Election Commissioner, India.

One of the drawbacks of this type of publication is that sometimes the unifying thread becomes missing between the papers. While the present volume is also not free from this, we are confident, the readers will not miss the general commitment of the authors to the North East, which incidentally provides the most impressive unity of thought in an otherwise canvass.

We understand this volume will go a long way as a pioneering effort in studies in electoral process in North East. It was indeed my proud privilege to be associated with this effort. I express my sincerest gratitude to the Governing Body of the NEICSSR and more particularly to its Secretary, Dr. B. Dutta Ray, for giving me an opportunity for the same, which I am sure, I do not deserve on merit.

P.S. Datta
CONTENTS

Preface v
Editor's Note vii

ASSAM

1. Assam Election 1946 —M. Kar 3

2. Nomination of Congress Candidates in the Fifth and Sixth General Elections in Assam —K.M. Deka 20

3. The 1978 Assembly Elections in Assam: An Analysis of the Poll Verdicts —N.L. Dutta 28

4. The State Assembly Elections of Assam of 1983 —Krishna Mohan Mathur 39

5. A Note on Electoral Behaviour in Assam—Pattern of Non-Voting —Manorama Sharma 44

MANIPUR

7. The Kuki National Assembly and the Electoral Politics in Manipur —Ashok Kumar Roy 67
MEGHALAYA

8. Electoral Politics in North-East India: With Special Reference to Meghalaya
   —P.C. Biswas 73

9. The INC and Political Development of Meghalaya
   —Dhiren Bhagwati 19

10. Nomination Process of INC Candidates in Meghalaya
    —B.B. Dutta 20

11. Election Manifestoes of Parties in Meghalaya: Some Preliminary observations
    —Soumen Sen 91

    —Umasaday Bhattacharyya 113

    —P.S. Datta 113

14. A Note on Changing Pattern of Leadership in Garo Hills as seen from Election Results
    —D.N. Majumdar 120

15. Electoral Politics in Meghalaya during the 1983 (Assembly) Elections: A Case Study of Mawkhar Constituency
    —Sulochana Bawri 127

16. Public Consciousness and Participation in Election (A Case Study of Shillong)
    —Bhaskar Jyoti Das 146

    —B. Pakem 152
MIZORAM

18. Election Scene in Mizoram—A Note
   —P.K. Bandopadhyay 168

NAGALAND

19. Electoral Politics in Nagaland
   —R.P. Singh 197

TRIPURA

20. Politics of Elections in Tripura
   —Jagdish Gan Choudhury 197

APPENDIX

21. Basic Provisions Regarding Elections to Lok Sabha and State Assemblies
    —V. Ramakrishnan 209
CONTRIBUTORS

1. Dr. M. Kar
   Lecturer in History, St. Edmund's College, Shillong, Meghalaya.

2. Dr. K.M. Deka
   Professor of Political Science, Dibrugarh University, Dibrugarh, Assam.

3. Dr. (Mrs.) N.L. Dutta
   Reader in Political Science, Dibrugarh University, Dibrugarh, Assam.

4. Mr. Krishna Mohan Mathur, I.P.S.
   Ajmer, Rajasthan.

5. Mrs. Manorama Sharma
   Lecturer in History, Gauhati University, Guwahati, Assam.

6. Mr. Arunjoyti Sengupta
   Lecturer in Political Science, Karimganj College, Karimganj, Assam.

7. Mr. Ashok Kumar Roy
   Lecturer in Political Science, Presidency College, Motbung, Manipur.

8. Mr. P.C. Biswas
   Advocate, Shillong, Meghalaya.

9. Dr. Dhiren Bhagwati
   Lecturer in Political Science, Dibrugarh University, Dibrugarh, Assam.

10. Dr. B.B. Dutta
    Lecturer in Economics, St. Anthony's College, Shillong, Meghalaya.

11. Dr. Soumen Sen
    Lecturer in Political Science, Shillong College, Shillong, Meghalaya.
12. Dr. Umasaday Bhattacharyya
   Lecturer in Political Science, Lady Keane Girls' College, Shillong, Meghalaya.

13. Dr. P.S. Datta
   Lecturer in Political Science, St. Edmund's College, Shillong, Meghalaya.

14. Dr. D.N. Majumdar
   Reader in Anthropology, Gauhati University, Gauhati, Assam.

15. Miss Sulochana Bawri
   Research Scholar, Political Science, North Eastern Hill University, Shillong, Meghalaya.

16. Mr. Bhaskar Jyoti Das
   Research Scholar, Anthropology, North Eastern Hill University, Shillong, Meghalaya.

17. Dr. B. Pakem
   Professor of Political Science, North Eastern Hill University, Shillong, Meghalaya.

18. Dr. P.K. Bandopadhyay

19. Dr. R.P. Singh
   Lecturer in Geography, D.M. College of Arts and Commerce, Imphal, Manipur.

20. Dr. Jagadish Gan Choudhury
    Lecturer in Political Science, B.B. Evening College, Agartala, Tripura.

21. Mr. V. Ramkrishnan, I.A.S.
    Deputy Election Commissioner, New Delhi.
Our Publications

1. A Dictionary in Assamese & English 175/- M. Bronson
2. Assam and Neighbouring States (Historical Documents) N.N. Acharyya 105/-
3. Basic Issues on Centre-State Relations N. Sanajaoba 195/-
4. Dairy Micro Biology K.C. Mahanta 125/-
5. Electoral Politics in North-East India P.S. Dutta 140/-
6. Folklore in North East India S. Sen 125/-
7. Frontiers G. Dunbar 180/-
8. Garo Hills-Land and the People L.S. Gassah 125/-
9. History of Medieval Assam N.N. Acharyya 150/-
10. Marketing in North East India (Problems of Rural Marketing) J.B. Ganguly 105/-
11. New Horizons of North East J.D. Baveja 100/-
12. North East—as viewed by Foreigners N.N. Acharyya 125/-
13. Planning in North East India K. Alam 180/-
14. Revenue Administration in Assam D.D. Mali 165/-
15. Studies in the History of Assam S.K. Bhuyan 105/-
17. Twenty Years in Assam P.H. Moore 96/-
18. Land Reforms and Peasant Movements A. Goswami F/C 150/-
19. Forestry Development in North East India M. Dasgupta F/C 195/-

Distributed by Western Book Depot
PANBAZAR, GUWAHATI-781001
ASSAM