

EXAMINATION DEPARTMENT

1997-98 has been a year of reformation and a year of change. With the delinking of the Plus Two and the handing over of the same to the concerned state boards, the University had to reinforce its efforts towards the improvement of the examination pattern for the degree level. Last Pre-University examination was conducted in March/April, 1998. Since 1993, the University has been following the Three Years Integrated Degree Course with the built-in system of Annual Examinations. Having experienced this system to be not in the best interest of the students besides the administrative bottlenecks created for the University and College Administration, the University thought afresh about this system and after much deliberations, the University has switched over to the Two Part Examination System with Part I Examination at the end of the Second Year from 1999 onwards and Part II Examination at the end of the Third Year that is in March/April, 2000. All necessary changes in the Ordinances and Regulations have been incorporated consequent upon this change as well as all affiliated colleges have been informed. Thus, the First Year Examination was conducted by the colleges themselves. It is hoped that with this arrangement, the University will be able to adhere strictly to its calendar of admissions and examinations as all arrangements appear to be complete.

The admissions and examinations for the PG departments have been made strictly in accordance with the timeframe given for admissions and examinations.

The Department has also gone for innovations towards computerisation of its various functions. Commendable beginnings have been made and it is hoped that it will, in due course, be able to computerise the entire process of admissions and examinations.

The statistics of results given in the appendix relate to the final year examinations of each course only. We do not find it necessary to give the result analysis of the First and Second Year in case of Degree Examinations and First Year in case of Pre University Examinations as they relate to the clearance of the courses falling on the respective years. The statistics of what are being provided, therefore, only relate to the final year Degree and the last Pre-University Courses.

The analysis of Examination Results for the year 1997 is given under Appendix - A and the analysis of Enrolment of students for the Academic year 1997-98 is given under Appendix - B.
