Grace Principle For PG Examinations

- (a) A candidate falling short of pass marks or aggregate by one mark is awarded one mark automatically without adjustment. For example, if a candidate gets 34 and requires 35 to pass, is given 1 mark automatically without adjustment.
- (b) Whatever grace is decided, it is to be subject to adjustment to the extent possible and from the highest scored paper in descending order.
- (c) A candidate failing to secure a better division or to secure 55% of marks in overall, shall be given a maximum of five marks for improvement of his/her division or to secure 55% of marks. This is to be done without mark adjustment.
- (d) The ledger/tabulation register shall reflect the grace marks, if any.
- (e) The above grace adjustment principle will not apply to the cases of mass failures. For example, in a certain examination, 40 students appear and 35 (say) of them fail. The software should have provisions for such cases also.

Note: A grace can be either adjusted or non-adjusted grace.

Grace Principle for UG Examinations

- (a) A candidate falling short of pass marks or aggregate by one mark is awarded one mark automatically without adjustment. For example, if a candidate gets 29 and requires 30 to pass, is given 1 mark automatically without adjustment.

- (b) Whatever grace is decided, it is to be subject to adjustment to the extent possible. The adjustment principle, to be followed for such, is from HONOURS to HONOURS, PASS to PASS, and from non-elective to non-elective papers. The order of adjustment is to be in descending order from the highest to the lowest.
- (c) The ledger/tabulation register shall reflect the grace marks, if any.
- (d) The above grace principle will not apply to the cases of mass failures. For example, in a certain examination, 40 students appear and 35 (say) of them fail. The software should have provisions for such cases also.

Note: A grace can be either adjusted grace or non-adjusted grace.
